One kiss lasts a moment. But a thousand kisses can last a lifetime. One boy. One girl. A bond that is forged in an instant and cherished for a decade. A bond that neither time nor distance can break. A bond that will last forever. Or so they believe. When seventeen-year-old Rune Kristiansen returns from his native Norway to the sleepy town of Blossom Grove, Georgia, where he befriended Poppy Litchfield as a child, he has just one thing on his mind.

A Thousand Boy Kisses has amassed rave reviews from random goodreaders to my co-bloggers so I was finally convinced to take a chance on it. I have a mild dislike for angst so that's already one point against A Thousand Boy Kisses, but I have also read a few books with strong angst in it that I actually love (e. g. Cry No More by Linda Howard).

If you're not a typical YA reader, I still recommend A Thousand Boy Kisses. The theme and story line would be okay for the older reader. If you like A Fault In The Stars, Five Feet Apart, or If I Stay, you will definitely like A Thousand Boy Kisses.
