Famous Found Objects in 20th Century Art. The most famous series of "found objects" were Duchamp's "readymades", an early form of junk art, including works like: Bicycle Wheel(1913), Bottle-Rack(1914), and Fountain(1917, a urinal) both in the Musee National d'Art Moderne, Centre Georges Pompidou, Paris; and In Advance of the Broken Arm(1915, Replica in Moderna Museet, Stockholm; a regular snow shovel on which Duchamp had painted its title, ...

Found Objects: Definition, Characteristics, History:

A found object is a natural or man-made object, or fragment of an object, that is found (or sometimes bought) by an artist and kept because of some intrinsic interest the artist sees in it. Found objects (sometimes referred to by the French term for found object 'objet trouvé') may be put on a shelf and treated as works of art in themselves, as well as providing inspiration for the artist.

But it wasn't until the 1900s that artists began to incorporate found objects into sculptural works as an artistic gesture. The term "found object" is a literal translation from the French objet trouvé , meaning objects or products with non-art functions that are placed into an art context and made part of an artwork; what we now call "the readymade" is an updated version of that idea.

The History of the Found Object in Art | Art for Sale ...

Found object is a loan translation from the French objet trouvé, describing art created from undisguised, but often modified, objects or products that are not normally considered materials from which art is made, often because they already have a non-art function. Pablo Picasso first publicly utilized the idea when he pasted a printed image of chair caning onto his painting titled Still Life with Chair Caning. Marcel Duchamp is thought to have perfected the concept several years

Found objects are (usually minimally-altered) man-made or natural objects. The most famous use of found objects in a work of art has been by Marcel Duchamp, in his readymades, many of which were just manufactured objects with minimal alterations made to them, such as his Fountain (1917), a urinal that was simply turned over, signed (with a pseudonym, "R. Mutt") and dated (1917).
