The Kubota parts system should give you the BCI group number (physical size) and the CCA rating for the OEM battery. It might also be marked on the battery itself. Once you have that information just look for a battery with the same BCI number and CCA rating and you should be good to go. Reply With Quote.

Hi, I have a Kubota L2800 tractor, that has been sitting idle for over a year, and it now has a dead battery. I've changed the fluids and filters, but I am having a tough time locating a battery for it, other than the overpriced "Kubota" battery for around $275. I've called dealers (all about 1 hr away) that tell me contrasting information.

A battery can seem to take a charge - yet nothing really happens to increase it's ability to start the tractor. When you take the old battery in for the core (around here it is 10 bucks) note the length,width and height of yours. Sometime finding a battery that will fit in the compartment can be tough, some have lots of room, while others do not.

After installing it, it wouldn't start my tractor. I took it back, they tested it and it had a dead cell in it. They only had one other battery on the shelf in this brand that would fit my tractor. I insisted they test it. It too had a recommendation if replacing it. I just got my money back. I wasted a half a day of running around.
