In January 1970, the first issue of the Ensign appeared, replacing a previous LDS magazine, the venerable Improvement Era. As just announced, the Ensign is being phased out, more or less replaced by the current international magazine, the Liahona.I think the Ensign goes out with a whimper, not a bang. People don't read magazines much anymore, much less rather dull church magazines.

Goodbye, Ensign – Wheat & Tares
Also, in 1971-72 the Ensign had BYU professors write a series of substantive articles about the origins and beliefs of several religions. The articles are more groundbreaking because of the educational effort to help members build a common cultural understanding and find positive insights into other faiths.
